SATURDAY EVENING, SEPT. 28, 1878.

SIX HUNDRED MEMBERS GOING TO JOIN THE UTAH BAND.—Five hundred and ninety nine Mormon immigrants arrived yesterday in the Wyoming. An even 600 sailed from Liverpool, under charge of Mr. Davies, but one of the number, Hans Anderson, died, and was buried at sea. These who arrived were, for the most part, Danes, with a large infusion of Norwegians and Swedes. There were a few English, and four families of Welsh. There was not an Irishman or Irishwoman. Natives of Ireland hardly ever embrace the Mormon faith. The latest steamship that brought out recruits for Salt Lake took, indeed, one Irishman among the number, but that was not an enthusiasm to convert to Mormonism may, perhaps, be gathered from the fact that when questioned upon the subject, he said: "The half of me passage was paid, so, to be gone, I thought I'd come anyhow." All the emigrants, except the Irish and the Welsh, carried baggage, and most of them were loaded down with household articles. The wharf was littered with tin pots, pans, buckets and kettles. Many of them had bedding, and several carried boxes of carefully tended flowers. The gangway was dangerously steep, and encumbered as they were, the immigrants, in almost every instance, found it impossible to descend unaided. The Mormons start to-day for the West.—N. Y. Sun, 26th.

A FAIR OF ITS OWN.—Any one just taking a glance at Isaac Eichberg's new and select stock of Dry Goods and Fancy Goods displayed this season will admit that such selection, such taste and such qualities of dress goods were never exhibited here before, and nothing was left undone to complete the picture. Our friends have no occasion to quote Washington or Baltimore prices to us, nor have they to go to other cities for want of a selection. We are prepared to meet any and all emergencies, and ready to show up the handiwork and cheapest stock in the country. We shall be pleased to see our numerous friends and customers, and convince them of the foregoing fact. Respectfully, sep 27-1w ISAAC EICHBERG.
